

Turnover in the retail trade at the end of November 2016

14 December 2016

Turnover in retail trade decreased in November

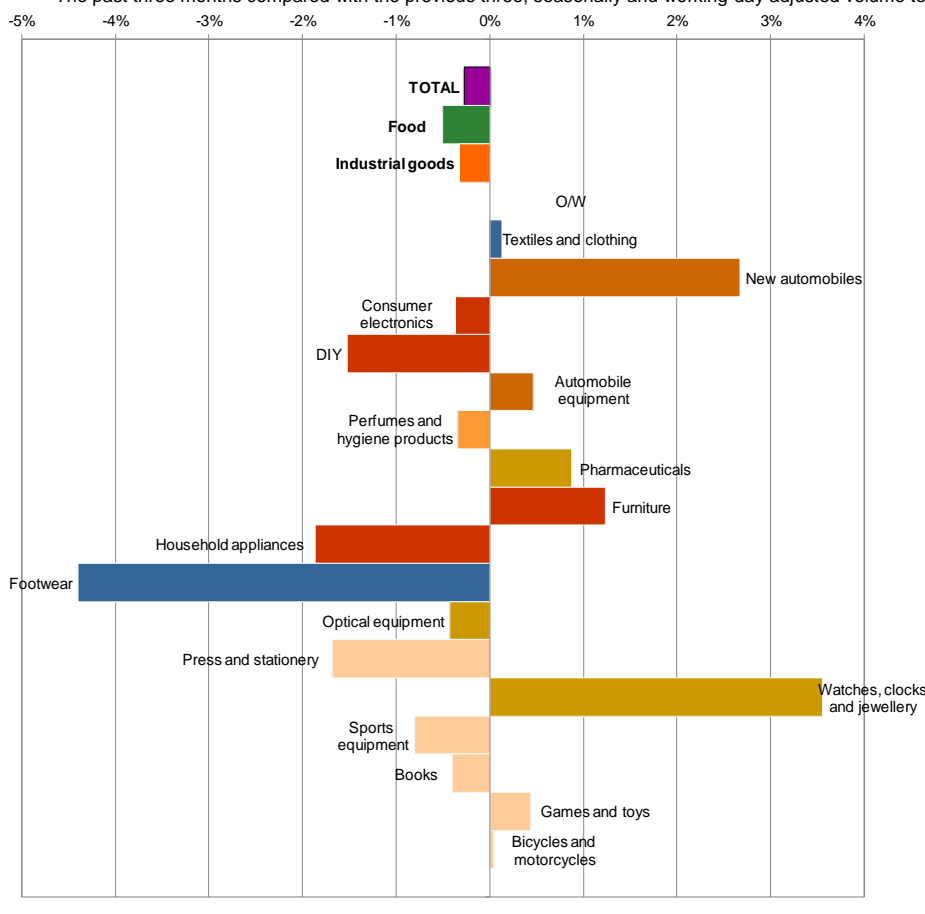

Over the past three months, turnover in retail trade fell by 0.3% (adjusted for seasonal and working-day variations). Food and industrial goods sales were down by 0.5% and 0.3% respectively. Footwear sales, which were weak in September, decreased further in November.

Sales of small retailer stores declined by 0.6%, while those of large general retailers increased by 1.1%.

In November, turnover in retail trade fell by 0.6%, due to the 1.2% drop in industrial goods sales. Clothing and footwear sales declined by 5.2% and 4.1% respectively.

Notes:

- The FEVAD and the Banque de France work together to publish data on product distance selling, including online sales, in France (excluding food sales).
- The aggregated and by sub-sector series are seasonally adjusted on an individual basis: the seasonally adjusted series do not represent the sum of the seasonally adjusted components.
- Sectors are classified according to the relative weight of the distribution methods included in the aggregates for small retail stores and large general retailers (see methodology)
- However, the "large general retailer" aggregate is not a sub-aggregate of the "total industrial and food product" index. Rather, it is an independent index that covers the overall turnover of hypermarkets, supermarkets, department stores and distance selling. It does not cover national chains.
